

HAKAMA

PHILOSOPHY

People

In millions of years nature has created a living being that adapted perfectly to the requirements of its environment. Colour, appearance, structure, size, weight, rapidity, ruse, strength, dominance and body design result from a sum of qualities in a work of art that is hardly unsurpassable.

Vision

HAKAMA is setting new standards in sheet metal technology.

Aim of the enterprise is to be an innovative, competent and reliable partner for our customers, suppliers and female and male contributors.

HAKAMA[®]

Philosophy

HAKAMA is specialized in customized complete solutions in the area of sheet metal technology. Our priorities are consultancy, engineering and realisation of custom-made, innovative sheet metal parts, complex housings or components for appliances and installations of high-quality branches of industry.

For us the up most aim is the satisfaction of our customers and a permanent improvement of our performances to come up with the changing market requirements and the profitability of our own enterprise.

We achieve this aim through

- quick reaction and dealing with the multifarious requirements and expectations of our customers.
- early recognition of new product chances and the development of appropriate market services.
- transmission of existing product and performance conceptions for new markets that are to be developed.

- active differentiation from the competition by technical competence, innovation, flexibility and quality not only in performance production but in communication, too.
- purposeful increase of the innovation speed by know-how concentration, short information ways, branch knowledge and application of up-to-date technology.
- trained, motivated and informed female and male contributors.
- optimization of the process developments from engineering to delivery on schedule of our products.
- assurance, verification and adjustment of our quality and safety standards for all relevant processes within our organisation as well as in the close dialogue with the procurement market and our partners.
- a controlled information flow.

Codes of behaviour

- We follow the HAKAMA vision.
 - We listen to the requirements of the market and we have an open ear for the requests of our customers.
 - We strive for a unitary behaviour (considering the level of knowledge relating to philosophy and objectives).
 - Clear and preferably open information are the basis for doing business for the welfare of the company.
 - Specialized female and male contributors and up-to-date technology create the prerequisites for partner cooperation with companies in need for the exceptional and to whom we deliver the exceptional.
- We listen to our female and male contributors and support the internal communication as well as the elaboration of mutual objectives.
 - We want to be an attractive partner for our customers, suppliers and female and male contributors.
 - We actively bear the economic, social and technological ecological responsibility for the environment and the society within the bounds of our possibilities.

Fascinating beauty in perfect harmony. The scopes of application of "bionics" in design, construction and engineering are inexhaustible. Nature offers ideas and solutions, where modern technology strikes on ecological limits.
